Did You Know?

Estimates suggest that only 1 in 10,000 clovers will have 4 leaves. The extra leaf is caused by a genetic variation. In the early days of Ireland, Celtic priests carried 3-leaf clovers (shamrocks) in the belief, that with their help, they could see evil spirits approaching and escape. 4-leaf clovers were Celtic charms, offering magical protection and warding off bad luck. In the Middle Ages, children believed they might be able to see fairies if they carried a 4-leaf clover.*
